Social Media Do’s and Don’ts Checklist

Do’s

- Think before posting:

  Before sharing any content, take a moment to consider its impact on others and your own digital reputation. Once something is posted online, it can be difficult to remove completely, so it is important to be mindful and responsible.

- Maintain respectful communication:

  Always use polite, kind, and professional language while interacting with others. Respect different opinions and avoid using harsh or offensive words, especially in academic or public discussions.

- Protect your privacy and personal information:

  Be careful about what you share online. Avoid posting sensitive details such as your phone number, home address, passwords, or personal documents, as this can lead to misuse or security risks.

- Verify information before sharing:

  In today’s digital world, misinformation spreads quickly. Always check the authenticity of news, posts, or messages from reliable sources before forwarding or sharing them.

- Use social media for positive purposes:

Engage in activities that support your learning and growth, such as following educational pages, joining professional communities, and building meaningful connections.

Don’ts

- Do not post offensive or inappropriate content:

  Avoid sharing content that is abusive, disrespectful, or harmful to others. Such posts can negatively affect your reputation and may lead to serious consequences.

- Do not post offensive or inappropriate content:

  Avoid sharing content that is abusive, disrespectful, or harmful to others. Such posts can negatively affect your reputation and may lead to serious consequences.

- Do not spread fake or misleading information:

  Sharing unverified or false content can create confusion and harm others. Always ensure that the information you share is accurate and trustworthy.

- Avoid oversharing personal details:

  Posting too much about your personal life can make you vulnerable to privacy breaches, identity theft, or unwanted attention.

- Do not engage in online arguments or cyberbullying:

  Getting involved in fights, trolling, or bullying online can damage your relationships and digital image. It is better to stay calm, ignore negativity, or report inappropriate behavior.

- Avoid unprofessional behavior in formal contexts:

  When using social media for academic or professional purposes, avoid slang, abbreviations, or casual language. Maintain a formal tone to create a good impression.
